An exciting new novel of the literary genre of executable-thrillers

Prescription

Eye for eye prosecutor Antonio Tedeschi receives a call that throws him far back into his past. The mother of his childhood friend Vittorio Schreiber tells him in a tearful voice about the death of her son. He has starved himself to death. Horrified, Antonio searches for reasons for this cruel death and, during his research, arrives at a Jesuit boarding school, the College in St. Blasien - where their friendship once broke up.

A novel that is in the same vein as the previous successful novel Fehurteil. Investigations that reveal different and complex aspects of human relationships and that are narrated by those who know this subject well and who know how to captivate the reader until the last page of the book.

Sascha Berst-Frediani, born in Italy, is a lawyer in Freiburg. He studied Germanistics and then law in Germany, Italy and France. He won the "Freiburger Krimipreis" in 2013 and in 2015 the Krimipreis "Herzogenrather Handschelle". "Repentance" is after "Fehurteil" and "Mord im Garten des Sokrates" his third thriller. His thrillers are all published in different languages and have been reprinted several times.

Other titles by Sascha Berst-Frediani: Mord im Garten des Sokrates, Fehurteil, Reue, Verjährung
