Il Dissidio Cattolico
La reazione a papa
Francesco
Massimo Borghesi

pp. 416, 15X23 cm

Westernists and sovereignists, neo-conservatives and traditionalists, have turned the pontificate of Francis into the scapegoat of discontent and resistance.

The Catholic Dissent
The reaction to Pope Francisco

All the recent popes, from Paul vi onwards, have had to endure criticism, sometimes very harsh, of their actions. Never, however, has 'Catholic dissent' towards the pope reached a level of intensity comparable to that which has accompanied the pontificate of Francis

The discontent and resistance of the groups that never embraced the Second Vatican Council, apparently quelled under John Paul II and Benedict XVI, have re-exploded with a new intensity fuelled by the Manichean and apocalyptic wind blowing in the West after the tragedy of 11 September 2001. In the new millennium, Occidentalists and sovereignists, neo-conservatives and traditionalists, have made the Pope the scapegoat, the person responsible for the crisis of today's Catholicism, the good-hearted relativist who, in times of war, puts Mercy before Truth. The volume, with its collection of writings, articles and interviews from 2013 onwards, accompanies the reader between chronicle and history. It allows one to enter into the heart of a dialectic played with no holds barred. It brings to mind characters and events otherwise destined for oblivion. The history of the Church is a drama, and recent years are an eloquent confirmation of this.
